

Full Name: Dr Mumthaz Banoobhai

Institution/Organisation: Technological Higher Education Network South Africa

Based In (Country): South Africa

Dr Mumthaz Banoobhai is the Senior Director of the HEDS (Higher Education and Development and Support) Directorate at TUT (Tshwane University of Technology). The directorate is responsible of Cooperative Education, Student Development and Support and Curriculum development and Support at all nine campuses. She is the coordinator of teaching and learning projects for the office of the DVC: Teaching and Learning, including the TUT101 project, the THENSA: HERE-SA project, the Language Review Project 2022 and the SASUF 2030 project.

Prior to this she was Senior Lecturer and HoD at the School of Education and was responsible for the BEd: GET (General Education and Training) Teacher Education Programmes. As HOD she was the TUT coordinator in the DHET national EU Strengthening of Foundation Phase Teaching project consortium. She also led the HEQSF alignment process in the School of Education. Earlier on in her career she was a Student Development and Curriculum Development practitioner and participated in EU projects in the Netherlands as well and leadership for woman and action learning and action learning in Australia (SA-Aus Links Project). Her research interests include curriculum studies, teaching, learning and assessment in both basic and higher education.

